Child Care in Mitchell County

Did you know that...

- approximately 550 children under six in the county live in families where their sole parent or both parents are working? The need for child care is critical to the economic viability of these families.
- the county received and spent $477,005 (not including Smart Start funding) to help parents pay for child care in fiscal year 2009-10? In December 2010, the county served 129 different children with child care subsidy and had 0 eligible children on the waiting list for subsidy.
- Mitchell County has 13 licensed child care businesses? Of these, 9 are centers and 4 are family child care homes. These businesses employ 59 people directly, and also contribute to the economy through purchases of goods and services provided by other businesses in their communities and state.
- there are 243 birth to five year old and 101 school-age children currently enrolled in these child care programs.
- 9 child care businesses in Mitchell County have voluntarily met the standards to earn a 2-5 star rating? Of all the licensed programs in the county, 44% of centers and 25% of homes have a 4 or 5 star rating.
- among birth to five year old children enrolled in centers in Mitchell County, 43% are in 4 or 5 star licensed centers. Among birth to five year old children enrolled in homes in Mitchell County, 26% are in 4-5 star licensed homes.
- 4 teachers, directors and family child care providers living in Mitchell County participated in the T.E.A.C.H. Early Childhood® Project in fiscal year 2009-2010 with 2 child care businesses supporting their employees returning to school through this scholarship program?
- using federal guidelines for setting subsidy payment rates and data from a 2007 market rate study, the 4-star center market rate for two year olds in Mitchell County is $555 per month?
- most families in Mitchell County cannot afford the full cost of child care? Low-income families and families with more than one child have to pay a high percentage of their income for care. A single mother with one child earning $30,336 or less per year can receive child care subsidy as funds are available. If funds are unavailable or if this parent's earnings exceed the income eligibility limit, a parent would pay 22% of her gross income (see chart) for child care offered at the county rate. Little is left in the family's budget for food, medical, clothing, travel or other basic living expenses. Due to the high cost of child care, parents such often make difficult choices. Some may be forced to seek TANF. Others may seek cheaper, often inadequate child care or leave their children unattended.
